

Popular Operatic Scores to Be Heard on 'Theatre in Song' Nov. 30

A musical program, "Theatre in Song," featuring a young American tenor, Wesley L. Swails, will be presented in the Joplin Junior College auditorium at 10:00 a.m., Wednesday, November 30. Max Mueller, an artist of the "American Pop Opera Players" will assist Mr. Swails.

Wesley L. Swails

The two artists are currently performing a series of musical entertainments for Mid-Western audiences, including both solos and duets. "Theatre in Song" is a review of great musical theatre from opera to operetta to present day musicals.

Included in the program will be highlights from the "Merry Widow," "Showboat," "Student Prince," "Naughty Marietta," "Madame Butterfly," "La Boheme," "Pagliacci," "Carousel," and other favorites from the world of musical masterpieces.

Mr. Swails is a leading tenor of the Philadelphia Civic Grand Opera and the Amato Opera Theatre in New York. He has performed over 300 musical and operatic programs in several Eastern states.

Mr. Swails has been a music student since the age of five. Following army service during the war, he majored in stage direction and music at Juilliard. He also studied at the American Theatre Wing professional training program in New York, and at the University of Southern California.

The tenor received his main vocal training at Mademoiselle Leila Livian's voice studio in New York City where he began singing in the old Italian "bel-canto" method. Felice De Gregorio describes Mr. Swails in "Gotham Guide" as "the greatest vocal technique I have heard in the present generation of singers—a revival of the old Italian school of singing."

Leonardo Pavonne, conductor and composer, describes Swails as "the greatest American tenor in the country today."

The public is invited to attend the program and hear this outstanding musical talent.

Drama Students See Barrie's 'Dear Brutus'

Dr. B. G. Skillman and four members of College Players attended a production of James Matthew Barrie's play "Dear Brutus" on November 4, in Springfield.

Dr. Skillman said that the play "was a novel dramatization of the idea that there are forces within an individual which determine what he is going to become, so that even if he had a second chance, he would turn out the same." The play was based on Shakespeare's quotation, "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars, but in ourselves that we are underlings."

College Players who made the trip were Betty Board, Maxine Henderson, Beverly Kluge, and Billie Krummel.

Two Staff Members Attend State Meeting

Dr. Maurice Litton, dean of the College, and Miss Ada Coffey, English instructor, attended the convention of the Missouri Teachers' Association, November 3-5. Dr. Litton and Miss Coffey were two of the delegates from the Joplin Teachers' Association to the convention in St. Louis.

Miss Coffey, who is president of the Missouri Classroom Teachers, presided over that group's program, held in the Ivory Room of the Hotel Jefferson, where the principal address was presented by Dr. John Lester Buford, president of the National Education Association.

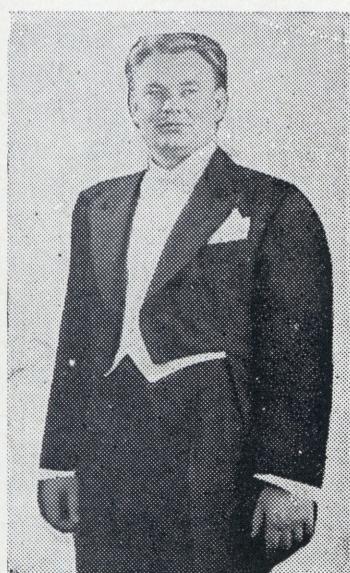

Cochran Still Lifes In Library Exhibit

An art display by Gifford Cochran, conservative painter, is now being shown in the library. There are some still life paintings, but the main subject deals with scenes of Maine and Florida.

Mr. Cochran studied architecture and oil painting extensively in Munich, Germany, later publishing a book "Grandeur in Tennessee" illustrating the interesting architecture of that state.

In 1940 his first one-man show of oils at the Wakefield Galleries was exhibited and practically sold out.

During the war Cochran was a captain in the Military Intelligence at Eisenhower's headquarters in North Africa, here thankful to find any materials suitable for painting.

German-Born U.S. Journalist Assembly Speaker

Gerhard Seger, German-born American journalist, spoke of prevailing conditions in present-day Germany at an assembly Wednesday.

Mr. Seger declared that "Germany, the enemy of the United States and the western world only ten years ago, has now become a coveted ally" and that "as a recipient of American aid under the Marshall Plan, Germany has turned into one of the best cash customers of the United States."

After a well-formulated talk that told of apprehension caused here and abroad by Germany's rearmament, the former member of the German parliament conducted a question and answer session.

Mr. Seger, who is a graduate of the School of Journalism at Leipzig, Germany, has worked as a newspaperman and foreign correspondent in many European capitals. Since 1934 he has lived in the United States. He became a citizen in 1942.

In 1945 Mr. Seger was a member of Justice Jackson's staff as well as a witness against Goering and Hess at the first Nuremberg trial. During 1948 he was in Germany for the educational division of the United States military government. Mr. Seger lectured in 1954 before members of the new national parliament, the state legislature of the largest German state, and at the University of Kiel.

Last spring Mr. Seger toured all of Western Germany and Berlin as the guest of the Press Office of the German federal government. While he was there, he interviewed important political leaders.

New Ensembles Will Appear With Choir Before Thanksgiving

The traditional Thanksgiving assembly will be presented by the Choir next Wednesday, under the direction of Oliver Sovereign. The 60 voices will sing, "Prayer of Thanksgiving from the Netherlands" by Kremser, "Blessing and Glory" by Rachmanoff, and several other numbers.

Two soloists will appear. Maureen Vincent will sing "Thank God for All These" by Russell, and Larry Habermehl will sing "Blessing" by Kern.

Adult Education Dept. To Sponsor Forums

"You and the Community Around You," a series of six Junior College panel discussions designed to create a better informed citizenry, will begin at 7:30 o'clock Monday night in the auditorium when a discussion will be held on "Sex Education in Public Schools."

The panel for the first of the six discussions will be composed of four persons, two men and two women, who share varied opinions on the subject. Richard Craig, a member of the Board of Education, will serve as moderator at each of the discussions.

Members of the panels are selected in accordance with their interest and knowledge of the subject of discussion. One of the next discussions will be "Religion in the Schools."

Admission for the group of six discussions will be $1.00. All persons desiring additional information have been asked to inquire at the office or to contact James R. Stratton, director of adult education.

Father David Patrick To Address Y.M.C.A.

Father David Craig Patrick, rector of Saint Philip's Episcopal Church, will speak on a Thanksgiving theme before the Y.M.C.A. next Tuesday.

Father Patrick attended the University of Indiana and graduated from Butler University where he was president of his senior class. He is a member of Sigma Nu fraternity. Father Patrick graduated from Nashotah House Seminary where he ranked first in grades.

He came to Joplin this fall from Trinity Church at Independence where he was well-known for his youth work.

The newly-organized boys and girls vocal ensembles will make their first appearance at this assembly. The girls ensemble is composed of Maureen Vincent, Toby Baker, Karen Lipe, Barbara Juhnke, Karen Williams, Peggy Bottles, Jane Medcalf, Jane Barlow, Peggy Alexander, and Sue Cookerly.

Members of the men's ensemble are Ron Richardson, Leroy Chapman, Joe Roche, Burton Smith, Ronald Cleaver, Bill Easley, Larry Habermehl, Phil Mount, Keith Roberson, James Allen, and Jerry Lasater.

Kathryn Walker is accompanist for both ensembles.

School will be dismissed for the two-day vacation at the close of class sessions Wednesday.

J. C. Instructor Contributes to Retailing Book

James R. Stratton, distributive education co-ordinator, collaborated with a group of 69 other college retailing professors in writing "Principles of Retailing," a study of the basic methods of everyday business, which is just off the press.

Mr. Stratton and Charles M. Kramer, an instructor in business administration at Dean Junior College in Franklin, Massachusetts, are co-authors of Chapter I, entitled, "Retail Store Operation."

The book discusses opportunities in retailing, methods of establishing a store, buying, pricing, sales promotion, control and financial policies.

Written on a college level, it is suitable for both the general reader who desires a broad survey of the field or the student who plans additional specialized study in some phase of retailing.

"Principles of Retailing" is unique in its composition. Intensive questionnaires were given each of the 70 educators who in turn submitted suggestions for data. Their suggestions were then channeled to the experts selected to serve on the individual chapter subcommittees. The experts drew on these suggestions as well as on their own extensive research and teaching background in assembling a detailed analysis of each phase of retail operations.

A Time to Remember

The American festival of Thanksgiving is one of the best examples to show Communism that a bond of unity exists between all Americans. The harvest air seems to have a magical charm which dissolves all feelings of racial and religious prejudice, the stumbling blocks to national unity.

Next week the churches of America will ring with thanksgiving for the goodness of the Creator. Throughout Protestantism voices will swell with the majestic words from the Doxology, "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

Catholics will observe the festival with the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament after the mass of Thanksgiving. The Jewish observance is called Succos, or the festival of Tabernacles. It is held earlier in the fall and celebrates harvest time with prayers of thanksgiving.

All Americans should make a special effort to continue the Thanksgiving spirit throughout the year. Then we can truly show the world that a united country is a strong country.

Fifteen Girls Push Past Shorthand Goals

Fifteen girls in shorthand classes have won proficiency awards since the beginning of school. Several of the girls won both the Gregg Shorthand Award for Speed and the Letter Transcription Award. To be eligible for the Gregg Shorthand Award for speed, a student must pass a five-minute test given at a designated rate and transcribed with 95 per cent accuracy. To win the Letter Transcription Award, a student must get two mailable letters out of three transcribed in 20 minutes.

Those who earned the Gregg Shorthand Award for Speed are Mary Baker, Charlene Cook, Lois DuBois, Hazel Kern, Phyllis McDowell, Carole Purkett, Jacque Smith, and Sue Wright who passed the 80-word per minute test; Mary Baker, Charlene Cook, Dianne Goodhope, Hazel Kern, Phyllis McDowell, and Carole Pence who passed the 100-word per minute test; Phyllis Brooks who passed the 120-word per minute test.

Those who earned the Letter Transcription Award are Betty Board, Phyllis Brooks, Charlene Cook, Dianne Goodhope, Ann Hickam, Barbara Juhnke, Carole Purkett, Phyllis McDowell, LaVelle Rand, and Jacque Smith.

A Look at Junge Stadium From the Field Homecoming Night

Mother Has Gone to School, Too

Mrs. Jobe

From Neosho comes a tall, friendly lady, Mrs. Sybil Jobe. Mrs. Jobe, a future elementary teacher, has enrolled for her first year at J.J.C. She previously attended Drury College. That was before Jerry, 12, David, 10, and Dale, 8, arrived on the scene. Mrs. Jobe loves J.J.C. but looks forward to the day when she can begin her teaching career. Besides her college and home, Mrs. Jobe finds time to give piano lessons to eight pupils.

Mrs. Troxel

Two mothers are enrolled for the needed subjects to fulfill requirements for elementary teaching certificates. Mrs. Mary Louise Troxel from Webb City is kept busy by a teen-age son, Steve. Mrs. Troxel has had previous college work at Lindenwood.

Mrs. Lortz

Mrs. Marguerite Lortz is the only grandmother in the group. Mrs. Lortz attended Ozark Wesleyan College in Carthage in 1925-1927. Then the arrival of four children filed her college plans for awhile. Only one of her four children remains at home now, however. He is Merle, 15. One of Mrs. Lortz's sons, J. W. Lortz, was a former Juco student. He is married and a photo engraver for the Bismarck Tribune in Bismarck North Dakota. Mrs. Lortz plans to teach and she has five grandchildren to give her practice.

Mrs. Straw

The last sophomore mother is Mrs. Gay Straw. Mrs. Straw is usually seen on the campus with her sister Margie Bussinger. On August 1, 1955, Millard Michael Straw arrived at the Carthage home. Mrs. Straw is one of the art editors for the Crossroads.

Mrs. Belden

Three freshmen complete Juco's mothers. Mrs. Sara Belden, a second semester freshman, has the unique experience of going to school with her husband. While Mommie and Daddy are busy at Juco, Scott, age 2, waits patiently for them to return each afternoon. Both Mr. and Mrs. Belden

J.J.C. Outcast Retreats to Alaska

November 18, 1955
Point Barrow, Alaska

Dear Students and Faculty:

As you probably noticed by the dateline, I'm writing this letter from Point Barrow, Alaska, my new home.

The reason for my being here is simple. I seem to be a lunatic, or, in plain, everyday language, a low-down outcast.

To those of you who do not know who I am, I'm the fellow who advocated a day for turn-about-is-fair-play, or, in other words, a TWIRP season. I started out innocently enough, merely stating my plea, and then I asked for replies. But it seems that not one adventurous soul had enough gumption to state his opinion, be it pro or con.

I still feel my idea was an exceedingly good one, and, as soon as I can get an organized movement started, I plan to experiment with the Eskimos.

I can see it all now, the Eskimo (feminine gender) treating her male constituents to an exciting day amid the icebergs hunting polar bears and then spending a romantic evening beside a warm fire, roasting icicles and eating snow cones.

Dejectedly yours,
Joe College

How Are You Doing at the Half?

To win their ball game, a good football team functions as a unit with a combined effort. And, it accomplishes this goal with a certain spirit, commonly called a "oneness of purpose."

At half time the good squad reviews the preceding two quarters of play, analyzes their opponent's play, and prepares for a victorious finale.

In many ways, the good student resembles the successful, smooth-working football eleven. He, or she, has worked hard for the past nine weeks, scrutinized himself via mid-term exams, and is ready to push on, without letting up, for a highly successful conclusion to the semester.

Let's examine ourselves. If, like a losing football team, the half-time score is not in our favor, let's turn on the steam the final two quarters. If we do, we'll be mighty happy when the final score is posted on the scoreboard, our grade card.

Let's not settle for a tie. Let's be a winner.

An Editorial:Our Cultural Opportunities

The fine arts, and music in particular, play an important part in community life. We can derive a satisfaction from good music heard in a concert hall that we cannot obtain from any other form of entertainment. To make this pleasure a reality is the objective of our new Community Concert Association in presenting four famous artists' concerts here.

The first attraction, to be presented Sunday in Memorial Hall, features the famous "Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo" with artists Igor Youskevitch and Alicia Alonso. Appreciation for the opportunity of enjoying such talent should go to several people. Jack Leipard, a former Joplin Junior College student, who is executive secretary of the association deserves our congratulations and thanks for his assistance in securing and promoting these educational and entertaining classical concerts. Also to be commended for their efficient efforts are the more than 100 workers and assistants who made possible the six-day membership drive. Certainly Mrs. Jay L. Wilder should be commended for her efforts during the last thirty years in developing cultural interests in the district.

The Community Concert Association, by presenting various top artists, can, with our help, continue to encourage the cultural and spiritual in our community.

Air Defense Filter Center Asks for Help

The Joplin Air Defense Filter Center, located on the Ninth floor of the Connor Hotel, has asked each student of Joplin Junior College to volunteer two-hours time each week. It isn't hard work. According to the official announcement, you can even wear a white shirt and there is a lounge to rest in and free coffee for all.

D.E. Club Elects B. Braxton President

The new officers of the Distributive Education Club were chosen October 28. Bob Braxton was elected president; Bob Land, vice-president; and Margaret Daugherty, secretary-treasurer. Ron Robson, Jr., was elected publicity chairman.

THE CHARTEta Chi Chapter Holds First Phi Theta Day

Phi Theta Kappa Day, a new project held by the J.J.C. chapter of Phi Theta Kappa on November 9, proved successful. Members of two other chapters participated in the event. They were Mu chapter from Northeastern Oklahoma A. and M. College at Miami, and Epsilon chapter from Cottey College at Nevada.

Max E. Thompson, the assembly speaker, talked about "The Mature Scholar." Mr. Thompson stressed that the mature student is the person who is eager to learn. He emphasized that the scholar is not necessarily a bookworm or a genius, but a well-adjusted individual who is balanced socially as well as intellectually.

Mrs. Joanna Green, president of Eta Chi, introduced the special platform guests and members of other honor societies. Platform guests who are members of Phi Beta Kappa were Mrs. Phillip Jones, Mrs. John Witherspoon, Mrs. W. W. Davis, and Mrs. Lillian Spangler. Former Eta Chi alumni guests were Mrs. Martha Dickson Dunham, Mrs. Geneva Huercamp Rogers, Mrs. Paulina Tuggle Haslett, Miss Linda Haslett, Robert Eldredge, and Mrs. Suzanne Ranum Carter.

Jim LePage, president of Pi Alpha Pi at Junior College, and Orville Brill, an honor student representing the high school National Honor Society, were also guests. Brill is president of the Freshman class here this year.

Students attending Phi Theta Kappa Day from Mu chapter were Truman Moss, Ann Cowan, Dan McRae, and Nicolette Brown. Miss Faye Vann, sponsor of Mu chapter, accompanied them. Those attending from Epsilon chapter were Bertie Bonnell and Suzette Hu.

Following the assembly, the three chapters met in Blaine Hall for workshop discussions. Barbara Ward of Pi Alpha Pi acted as the

Who Said a Library Was Serious?

The place a student least expects to find one humorous incident after another is in a library. But not so with our Juco "study center." Mrs. Loretta Frazier and many, many students, I'm sure can relate long-to-be-remembered episodes.

In taking a closer look, however, these funnies aren't so funny after all. For example, one of our more brilliant students, bounded into the library and said to Mrs. Frazier, "Please show me the card catalog. I have never seen the book!"

Also the time stands out in the Librarian's mind when the class wouldn't move a muscle after she cracked a joke. To this day she can't figure out what in the world was wrong with them.

Of course, there is always a giggle from the other side of the desk when one of Mr. Gockel's eleven o'clock geography students asks for a copy of Beard and Beard to get his geography assignment. The giggle wasn't because of Mr. Gockel's mistake, but because the student actually didn't know better, no-how!

Then there is the time that the boy asked about the C.B.I., but, when shown the Cumulative Book Index, said, "Oh, no. That isn't what I want at all. I thought C.B.I. meant Comic Books Illustrated!"

If you don't think of these incidents as comical, or appealing, either you're the guilty party or maybe you had better sign up for

Graduates Receive Engineering Honors

Students May Go To Recreation Meet

Leslie G. Kennon of the Missouri Division of Resources and Development, extends a special invitation to college students to attend the first Governor's Recreation Conference to be held December 1 and 2 at the Missouri Hotel in Jefferson City.

The conference, called by Governor Phil M. Donnelly, is for discussion of community and commercial recreation needs. According to Kennon's announcement, the conference should be of vital interest to college students studying recreation, sociology, education, and journalism.

The program will consist of talks by outstanding people, panel discussions, and group sessions. Journalism students will be admitted to a specially set up press room for members of wire service, newspapers, radio and TV.

For detailed information, students should write Leslie G. Kennon, Box 207, Jefferson City, Missouri.

Faculty Families Have Dinner Party

Faculty members and their families held an informal dinner party Saturday night in Blaine Hall at which time a gift was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Orie A. Joplin Romps Kemper In Homecoming Tilt

Scores Seven TD's Before Halftime

Coach Dudley Stegge's Lions rolled up seven touchdowns in the first half to swamp the Kemper Military Academy in the Homecoming game here, October 27, by a score of 47 to 0. Terry Wilson, 190-pound halfback for the Lions, chalked up 4 of Joplin's touchdowns, with Gus Gustafson, Bob Speedy, and Ron Wilson adding the other markers.

The first quarter started out with a bang as George Campbell recovered a Kemper fumble on the 18-yard line. Three plays later Terry Wilson slammed through the line for 4 yards and the first Joplin tally. Haughawout kicked the extra point.

Three minutes later Ron Wilson hit Bob Speedy on Joplin's 30-yard line and the "speedy" halfback out ran the defenders to pay dirt. Haughawout again kicked the extra point.

Midway through the first quarter Terry Wilson scampered around right end for 19 yards and another Lion score. The try for the extra point failed.

Sports Topics

By Jim Ellis

Even though we have ushered out our pigskin heroes for another year, our sports-loving hearts are not to be idle for any great time because the ever-swift game of basketball is beginning to percolate with the loopsters at J.J.C.

Incidentally, a rumor is going around that the Lions will do their hustling at Memorial Hall this year. I cannot verify this statement but like many of you, I, too, hope to get the Hall. We have needed such a court for a good long while. Don't get me wrong. I think we were very fortunate to be able to use the North Junior High court, but the south side "cliff" is slightly difficult to sit on.

What's all this about J.J.C. net prospects? Well, we have a few big boys like Gary Smith and Jim Scores and playmakers like the Haynes boys who have created quite a sensation around Wheaton for the last two years. Many others that I do not know about are to become part of what I predict to be one of the greatest cage squads in history.

Circle K Goes to KSTC For Kiwanian Banquet

The Circle K club attended a Kiwanis-sponsored banquet November 10 at Pittsburg State Teachers College. Members from the Circle K and Key Clubs of the surrounding district were present.

The Joplin Club chartered a bus to attend the meeting which was held at the student center. The purpose of the banquet was to promote fellowship and co-operation between the various clubs.

Lions Beat Greyhounds For Tie in Conference

Haughawout Sparks Win Over Fort Scott

Left end Joe Haughawout soloed the winning touchdown for Joplin as the Lions defeated Ft. Scott, 19-13, and tied with the Kansans for conference honors. The tilt was part of Ft. Scott's annual homecoming festivities and was played November 11, at Ft. Scott.

With only 17 seconds left in the game, Haughawout blocked a Ft. Scott punt, recovered, and ran the ball into the end zone for the six points that upset the Greyhounds' golden opportunity to clinch the Interstate Junior College grid championship.

Although Haughawout was the hero of the game, a fine bit of offensive playing was dished-out by Lion halfback Bob Speedy. Speedy received two long beautiful passes tossed by game captain Gary Robb and Ronnie Wilson and hustled them 51 yards and 69 yards consecutively. Robb carried the first toss across the line and Speedy galloped the distance alone with the second of the serials.

Coach Dudley Stegge's gridmen held the Greyhounds to a scoreless first quarter before jumping ahead

7-0 in the second. Ft. Scott tied the game 7-7 and slipped ahead 13-7 only to be tied again at 13-13 before the gun sounded to end the first half. With no scoring in the third quarter and most of the last stanza, the game appeared to be at a deadlock. Then Haughawout pulled the surprise play that whipped the opponents, 19-13.

The Lions bowed from football with a very good seasonal record. They lost only one conference game and a total of three defeats for the year. Joplin wound up with an all-season record of five wins and three defeats.
